

EXCEEDINGLY FINE SPARKLING WINE
FROM ITALY'S VENETO

The Champagne of Venice

FLOR Prosecco

V E N E T O

"Participating in the life cycle of the vine is one of the greatest privileges men can have in their earthly lives."

- Joseph Bastianich

Joseph Bastianich and his mother Lydia founded Azienda Agricola Bastianich in their ancestral home of Friuli-Venezia Giulia in 1997. They embraced a simple but pure objective: create unique yet terroir-driven Italian wines of outstanding quality from indigenous and international grape varieties.

Bastianich has continued his winemaking interests and ideals with this newest project, Flor. Prosecco is Venice's answer to Champagne, but the Flor bottlings exceed Prosecco's prerequisite fruit-driven, vivacious celebratory nature, existing as more than exemplary: these are deeply pleasurable wines of exceptional character and complexity.

Produced primarily from Valdobbiadene grapes hand-selected with great care by Joe Bastianich, Flor Prosecco and its rosé incarnation are delicious and impressively dynamic sparkling wines that complement a breathtaking array of foods and circumstances. Available in both bottles and magnums.

PROSECCO in bottle and magnum

fine perlage; impressive complexity: an exuberant aromatic profile of mixed summer fruits – particularly stone fruits – alongside a strong citrus component; the creamy palate shows plenty of fresh fruit character with a little almond bite

PROSECCO ROSÉ in bottle and magnum

fragrant cherry and strawberry nose introduces a palate of ripe but crisp red fruits; delicate and fruity, with fine bubbles and creamy mousse; in addition to contributing a rich salmon pink hue, 10% Pinot Noir brings structure and weight
